Le format RAW Jan 16 2020 Raw est un format d'image créé par des dispositifs tels que les appareils photo numériques ou les scanners. Le Raw est caractérisé par le fait d'avoir subi un minimum de traitement informatique. C'est le format le plus utilisé par les photographes professionnels, car il leur donne une entière maîtrise sur leurs images en leur permettant d'effectuer ces traitements par eux-mêmes (un peu comme en argentique lorsque l'on développe et tire soi-même depuis ses négatifs). Cet ouvrage est un guide pratique de traitement des fichiers Raw : conversion à partir de formats propriétaires et manipulations diverses.
